Senior resident volunteers provide an invaluable service to the Oscar and Ella Wilf Campus for Senior Living. Volunteering has a meaningful and positive impact on your community as well as on the person you're volunteering for and yourself. Serving as a volunteer, provides the volunteer with the satisfaction of helping others, even if that means not getting anything back in return. Most importantly, volunteers share their time, talents, and hearts in a way that actively improves the community in which they live.

*Volunteers do not necessarily have the time;
they just have the heart.*

At The Wilf Campus for Senior Living, we fulfill a promise every day by creating a comfortable home in central New Jersey where older adults are welcomed, respected and cared for. Where personal, medical and spiritual needs are recognized and met... and traditional Jewish values are celebrated. Where seniors lead active, independent lives in NJ with the support of compassionate professional caregivers. Where family and friends are embraced as part of our community. Where our residents enjoy peace of mind, knowing that no matter how their health conditions may change over the years, they will receive a full continuum of care. As a volunteer, you can be a part of this promise. As a volunteer on the Wilf Campus, you are not only welcomed with open arms into our community, but accepted by all seniors, in hopes of making their day brighter than when it started.

Volunteering in your community not only improves your general well-being, but also improves your self-esteem. To volunteer, and help someone in need, is the greatest gift anyone can ask for. A volunteer can show the smallest act of kindness, and touch someone's life in the smallest way. Fundamentally, volunteering is about giving your time, energy, and skills freely, and here, at the Oscar and Ella Wilf Campus for Senior Living, volunteers are encouraged to motivate within their communities with enthusiasm.
